DETAILED ACTION

The instant application is a national stage entry of PCT/JP03/03162 filed on March 17, 2003.

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

2. The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Art Unit: 2876

5. Regarding claim 1, the term "etc." renders the claim(s) indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "etc."), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable.

6. Claims 1-15 are deemed indefinite since claim 1 is written in a manner that does not allow for full and definite disclosure of the claimed invention. The claim, particularly the limitation starting with "by setting said key dot", is unclear.

Furthermore, the punctuation (e.g. comma placement) and usage of pronouns including 'they', 'it', and 'this' within the claims do not lend to a proper and definite interpretation of the claims.

However, for examination purposes, a prior art rejection will be set forth in view of the examiner's interpretation of claim 1 to be drawn toward an information input and output method by use of a dot pattern characterized in that, on a medium surface of a printed material a plurality of lattice dots are disposed in a rectangular shape and set as a block, and a dot within the pattern is shifted in a manner so as to make the shifted dot a key dot.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

8. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Olsson et al. (US 6,732,927) (hereinafter referred to as 'Olsson').

Olsson teaches an information input and output method by use of a dot pattern characterized in that, on a medium surface of a printed material, a plurality of lattice dots are disposed in a rectangular shape and set as a block, and the blocks are regularly and continuously disposed, and such a dot that 1 piece of the lattice dots which exists in the block was disposed by being shifted unidirectionally is set as a key dot, and by setting said key dot as a representative point, they are disposed at a circumference of the key dot, and by setting a center which was surrounded by the lattice dots of 4 points as a hypothetical point, and by setting this as a start point, at an end point which was represented by a vector, a plurality of information dots which have various information recognized are arranged in accordance with a predetermined rule by a dot code generation algorithm to thereby generate a dot pattern, and a block which configures said dot pattern is imported as image data by a camera, and, from a numerical value which was calculated by digitizing this, information, a program are outputted (col. 5, line 51-col. 6, line 34).
